PROLOGUE

"Who prologue-like your humble patience play—
Gently to 'read', kindly to judge our play."—King Henry V

It has been our express intent and purpose to present a sweeping panorama of Brookline High School life. We would capture all the ramifications of both student and faculty activities, the light as well as the serious moments, the play as well as the work. How well we have succeeded can only be judged by you, our readers. So unto you we commit our offering; judge wisely, for it is you we portray.

WARREN L. BARTLETT
Housemaster of Akers House

DEDICATION

You greeted our uncertain smiles with reassurance when we entered Brookline High School to spend four of the most important years of our life. You were constantly with us as friend and adviser. You praised us for our triumphs, you straightened out our difficulties, you were stern when we deserved punishment, you were sympathetic when we needed sympathy, you were friendly when friends were few; and above all your heartwarming presence was with us constantly, no matter into what field we ventured, always helping us along and smoothing our path. You took a group of five hundred boys and girls of different races, religions, and origins, and with a skill born of understanding and tolerance, you molded them patiently, firmly into a class in which class spirit and accomplishment are realities. The triumphs of the individual became the triumphs of the class. Your influence is a tribute to American Education. You instilled the qualities of honesty and courtesy towards our teachers and fellow students. You greatly deserve this tribute which reflects the feelings of every member of Akers House. To you, our Housemaster, Warren L. Bartlett, we humbly dedicate this book.

DR. ROBERT G. ANDREE

Headmaster

Because of your firm and just decisions and your remarkable powers of achievement, you have won the respect and loyalty of every member of B.H.S. Your helpful advice and able guidance have encouraged many students to seek higher goals in life, and your warm smile and hearty "hello" have been overtures of friendliness to all of us. The dreams which you have fulfilled in the past and the plans which you are forming for the future prove you to be a man of vision as well as action. Since your arrival at B.H.S. three years ago, the school has responded to the magic touches of your ability and vitality by augmenting its standards of harmony and school spirit.

With your versatile accomplishments in mind, the members of the class of nineteen hundred and forty-nine express to you, Dr. Andree, their appreciation and thanks for the inspiring years spent under your guidance and leadership.

MUCH OF DR. ANDREE'S TIME IS SPENT IN CONFERENCE.

MARY W. SAWYER

Dean of Girls

As Dean of Girls, you have been a source of friendship and advice to every girl at B.H.S. Your ready smile and genuine interest have put many a quavering freshman at her ease and restored poise to many a troubled sophomore and junior. You have helped the uncertain senior in choosing a vocation suitable to her tastes and abilities, or in planning for college on the basis of her academic achievement and interest.

As adviser to the Girls' League, you have devoted your outstanding abilities and a great deal of your time to developing the finer qualities in the girls of B.H.S. Under your guidance, the league has contributed many services of great value both to the school and to the community.

TECHNICAL DIRECTORS

ROBERT H. MITCHELL

Guidance Counselor

RAYMOND H. WOODMAN

Assistant Counselor

You are the loyal friend and invaluable counselor of every student of B.H.S. By lending your abundant knowledge and experience to each individual's problems, you have established yourself as an able guidance adviser, and you have won the respect and praise of the entire school. You have led the seniors of B.H.S. onward to appropriate goals in the academic and vocational fields; and they will always remember you for the foresight with which you helped them to plan their careers.

Your office has been the scene of many informal discussions as students perused the college catalogs and vocational pamphlets filed there. It has ever been a place where their questions could be kindly received and wisely answered. You, Mr. Mitchell, are, indeed, one of the outstanding influences in the school, for you have helped to channel the students' talents and abilities for successful living.

Mr. Woodman, as counselor and friend of all, you won us with your understanding ways. Your friendly hello has opened many a conference that set us straight. You and Mr. Mitchell make "guidance" meaningful for all of us.

SCHOOL COUNCIL

As the legislative branch of the B.H.S. three-in-one school government, the School Council was busily engaged in regulating elections, granting organization charters, and furthering proper behavior throughout the school.

Under the leadership of Paul Goldman, the Council sponsored several school improvement plans during the year. By soliciting the financial support of many B.H.S. organizations, it was largely responsible for the publication of this year's Students' Handbook; by sending outlines of the school constitution to every house, it provided a useful basis for draft-house constitutions; by setting forth plans for a cooperative store, it gave an opportunity for students to purchase school supplies at very low prices. Throughout the year Council representatives were sent to New England conferences where they discussed school life and government, gaining many useful ideas from the representatives of other schools.

The School Council is an organization of great influence to the school, and it is an integral part of the model government of which B.H.S. may well be proud.

COURT OF JUSTICE

Folding up their powdered wigs and long black robes, the members of this year's Court of Justice ended another successful term of judicial procedure. To begin the season the court held a mock trial wherein Peter Levison was charged with misconduct in the lunchroom. "I know the knave; hang him!" was the substance of prosecuting attorney, David Silverman's, account, while the defense valiantly strove to clear the defendant of all charges. The prosecution was victorious when a verdict of guilty was announced, and the "mock" criminal was led away to a week's hard labor in the cafeteria.

This year a new plan was adopted by the court; the accused had the opportunity of conferring with Mr. Mitchell, the Guidance instructor, which, in many cases, eliminated the necessity for a trial. Guided by Mr. Keene and led by Chief Justice Herbert Swartz, this group tried cases of lunchroom and corridor misbehavior and imposed punishment on all offenders throughout the year.

The main purpose of this judicial body is to aid school government by prosecuting all those disobeying marshal regulations. The Court of Justice is a valuable school organization, promoting good behavior for B.H.S. and affording wonderful experience in judicial practices for its members.

MANY MARSHALS ARE NEEDED TO KEEP TRAFFIC MOVING

TOM NAGI AT THE "TIMES SQUARE" OF B.H.S.

MARSHAL FORCE

To wear the well-known red and blue armband, to guide traffic in the crowded corridors, to feel a sense of responsibility and authority, to be a Marshal—this is the ambition of every student at B.H.S.

The Marshal Force is the executive constituent of B.H.S.'s three-in-one school government, the other two branches being the School Council and the Court of Justice. Under the supervision of David Silverman, captain of marshals, and Mr. Downes, faculty adviser, the force worked efficiently to keep the school free from commotion and disorderly behavior. Directed by Paul Goldman, head of the lunchroom, one group of marshals patrolled the cafeteria, keeping order and neatness among the crowds of students, while another group, directed by Charles Trahon, head of corridors, guided the traffic at busy corridor intersections.

Because of the efficiency with which the marshals performed their duties, very few offenders were brought up to the Court of Justice. The good conduct and the outstanding cooperation of the Marshal Force have preserved its honor and respect among the students and teachers of B.H.S.

Coordinating their efforts, the 1949 Murivian Editorial and Business staffs, led by Editor-in-Chief Dick Ginsberg and Business Manager Jim Fishel respectively, labored throughout the school year to produce and present a Murivian that would equal or excel the fine work of their predecessors. Starting the year with a subscription drive that in one week's time topped its quota, the business staff, advised by Mr. Walsh, did a great job of selling and distributing the yearbook.

Commencing in June of '48, the Editorial Staff consisting of the Editor, Assistant Editor Muriel Freedman, Staff Chairmen and committee members under the able advisership of Miss Elizabeth Shaw, and aided by Miss Pfleghaar and Mrs. Ross, worked unceasingly. Daily, Saturdays, and even vacations up to the very day of distribution saw hours of toil on the many facets of yearbook production. In this work the seniors received valiant aid from a picked group of willing Juniors who served as Junior Apprentices and gained thereby invaluable training and experience toward the production of their book.

Many people cooperated in the making of this book. It, like most worthwhile productions, is the outcome of the cooperative efforts of all concerned. The quantity of their work is at once evident. It is their fervent hope that the reader of these pages will agree that quality and quantity happily meet.

FACULTY

ART, SPEECH, AND MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The impressive auditorium programs, the convincing drama, the eye-filling color harmonies all declare the excellence of these departments. . . . Cultivating and enriching our lives, Mr. Zanzig's department makes Music a happy necessity, Miss Parker's department makes Art indispensable, and Mrs. Greenberg and Miss Folsom keep the Speech Arts flourishing. . . . Best of all are those special occasions when all three departments cooperate to create memorable programs.

STANDING: Mrs. Greenberg, Speech; Mr. Corley, Band; Miss Horn, Art; Miss Folsom, Speech.
SEATED: Miss Parker, (Head of Art Dept.), Mrs. Woodberry, Art; Mr. Joslin, Orchestra.

MISS HORN ENCOURAGES ARTISTIC DEVELOPMENT.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

This highly efficient and rapidly growing department, ably directed by Mr. Ehnes, strives continually to close the gaps between supply and demand. . . . More machines, more people wanting machines, more machines wanting people, more people keep this department hustling. . . . An atmosphere of bustling activity, clicking machines, busy switchboard, and whirring duplicators pervades this nerve center of our school.

STANDING: Mr. Roderick, Miss Greenshields, Miss Shiel, Miss Hamblin, Mr. Wall.
SEATED: Miss Berriman, Miss Poland, Mr. Ehnes (Head of Dept.), Miss Nickerson, Miss Maguire.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

The largest department, long guided by luminary Miss Alice H. Spauding, reaches all of us. . . . Starting each school year with the useful Student Handbook, continuing with the popular newspaper, the Sagamore, and concluding with the annual edition of the Murivian. . . . Not to mention the paragraphs, the prose, the poetry and so on that we hear and read and think about and write. . . . Yes, a very busy department.

STANDING: Mr. Grinnell, Mr. Weeks, Miss Shaw, Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. Seamans, Miss Tiews, Mr. Jordan, Miss Fitzhenry, Mr. Williams, Mr. Walsh.

SEATED: Mrs. Ross, Miss Libby, Miss Deal, Miss Spaulding (Head of Dept.), Miss Johnson, Miss Sawyer, Mrs. Harvey.

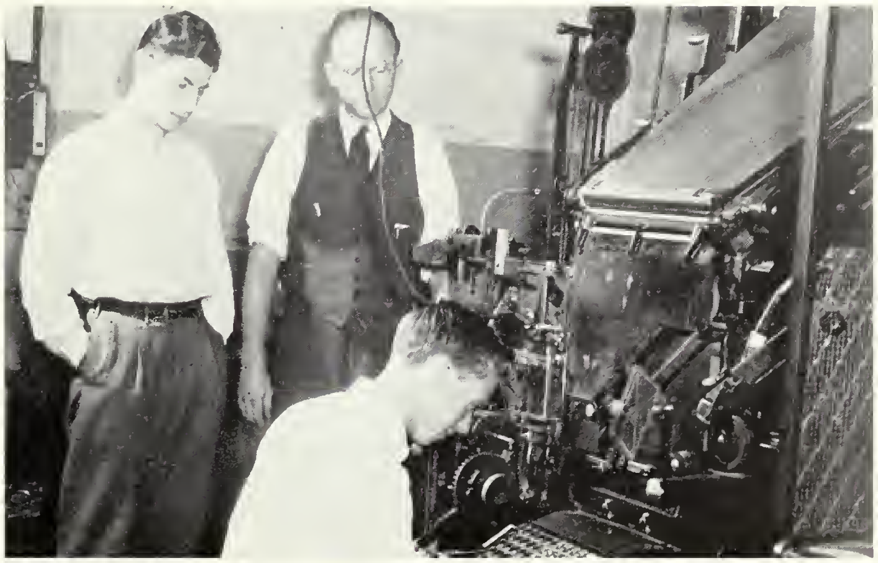
GUIDANCE, HOMEMAKING, AND LIBRARY DEPARTMENTS

Solving personal problems, looking forward to skillful homemaking, browsing through books and magazines are all stimulated by Mr. Mitchell, Guidance Counselor, by Miss Cronan, head of Homemaking, and by Miss Phillips, chief school librarian. . . . Whether thinking about next year's education, or today's menus, or last year's best reading, these three departments provide plenty of choices. . . . The days are not long enough to explore their resources, but they aid and enrich all of us.

STANDING: Mr. Bowler, Mr. Ford, Mr. Beauchemin, Mr. McMallin, Mr. E. Driscoll, Mr. McCabe.
SEATED: Mr. Edmunds (Head of Dept.), Mr. Woodlock, Mr. G. Driscoll.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT

Wonder where those good looking programs and cards were printed, where those handsome sets came from, where that clever wiring originated, why, our Industrial Arts department of course. . . . A beehive of shops and machines with plenty of experimental learning under the guidance of experienced operators headed by genial Mr. Edmunds. . . . Trained to skillful work with wood, metal, type, and machines are those fortunate enough to enter this department.



Mr. MACMILLIN AND RONNY LOOK ON WHILE AL PUNCHES THE KEYS.

LATIN DEPARTMENT

Small in size but mighty in influence, the Latin department ably directed by Miss Perkins qualifies us to meet any Latin crisis. . . . Latin language and life come alive and the toga in the public square something more than lines in a book. . . . Alpha Pi membership with its accent on quality and leadership comes under the direction of Miss Perkins whose annual trips to Italy keep Latin modern.

Miss Perkins (Head of Dept.) Miss Cooke, Miss Haynes, Miss Vanacore.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

No need to have trouble with figuring so long as this smart department guided by Mr. Ward provides the answers. . . . Developing advanced math skills for the capable, and everyday math for the rest of us. . . . Mingling slide rules and geometric figures with algebraic equations in orderly fashion ceases to be a maze and simply is amazing.

MODERN LANGUAGES DEPARTMENT

Lift your eyes to the colorful posters, train your ears to the persuasive Spanish, the smooth French, and the competent German, hear the tuneful recordings, quicken your steps to this lively department led by sparkling Miss O'Brien newly returned from another sojourn in France. . . . The cosmopolitan department of travelers, color pictures, and what's new from Paris, Hamburg, Madrid , and South America. . . . Friendship letters to pen pals across the seven seas are sponsored by this world-minded department.

Mr. Hines (Head of Dept.), Mrs. Brusko, Miss Kelley, Mr. Bemis.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Champing at the bit for that long awaited North Wing with its improved facilities, this department under the capable leadership of Mr. Hines continues to turn out stronger individuals and teams. . . . Whether swimming or dancing, running or jumping, bending or stretching, this hard-working department keeps us hustling. . . . Name your sport, they have it.

MR. HOLLINGWORTH AND MR. KEENE SLEUTHING FOR THE LOST HAMSTER, LATER FOUND.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

The Packard wing buzzes with the projects and problems of the sciences in this department guided by Mr. Hollingworth. . . . Stretching from Mr. Keene's zoo to Miss Murdock's mantled manikin, the corridors are lined with laboratories and cabinets gleaming with scientific exhibits and processes. . . . The annual Science Fair draws throngs of interested admirers crowding the aisles between student projects.

STANDING: Mr. Lowe, Mr. Warren, Mr. Beck, Mr. Keene.
SEATED: Mr. Bartlett, Miss Campbell, Mr. Hollingworth (Head of Dept.), Miss Bruce, Miss Murdock.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT

This civic-minded department under the capable chairmanship of Miss Bliss oversees our biweekly banking and our training for citizenship in a changing world. . . . Maps and charts spark long range studies and daily quizzes in matters historical. . . . This year's special interest is Mr. Merrill's co-authorship of an impressive new World History textbook.

AERO CLUB

"Off we go, into the wide, blue yonder, riding high into the sky. . . ." In a few years, some fliers from the Aero Club may sing this song as members of the United States Air Corps, but this year they have been busy on the construction angle of aviation. Under the able leadership of the faculty adviser, Mr. Warren, and the president, Marshall Simmons, the Aero Club has considered the problems and possibilities of such interesting fields as aerodynamics, rockets, and jet-propulsion. However, the main goal of the club is to teach students the construction and flying of model airplanes.

The Aero Club went to the Logan International Airport in East Boston, where they observed planes and facilities. That day they had a special treat, for the whole club was taken up in one of the planes on a flight arranged with the airport officials.

Some of the finished products of the members were on view in the cases outside room 331. There you could have seen the fine work done by the air-minded of Brookline High, and appreciated their interesting hobby.

THE ALPHA PI SYMBOL GLOWS IN LIGHTS ABOVE THE STAGE.
NEOPHYTES AWAITING INITIATION.

ALPHA PI

"Honor is the subject of my story. . . ." Shall I begin?

The curtain rose; the students who filled the auditorium gazed reverently at the Alpha Pi initiates seated on the stage. They saw their friends and classmates receiving the pins and pendants which denote one of the highest honors at B.H.S., membership in the Honorary Society. Such was the scene this year when several proud and happy students gained admittance to the society.

Alpha Pi connotes excellence and leadership, especially in the case of President Ralph Wharton, who had twenty-three and three quarters points. This is the highest point total received by any B.H.S. student since nineteen-hundred and thirty-nine.

More than eight per cent of this year's senior class have become members of Alpha Pi. To gain admittance to the society, you must have a well-balanced record of extra-curricular and scholastic achievements which add up to the required number of points, eight in your junior year, and ten by the middle of your senior year. The purpose of this organization is to recognize scholarship and leadership, thereby stimulating ambition for these achievements.

ART CLUB

"A great artist can paint a great picture on a small canvas. . . ." Among the artists demonstrating the truth of this quotation are the members of the B.H.S. Art Club, who have shown their artistic ability on many occasions during the year, notably Barbara Tabachnik, winner of the National Rexteen Compact Design Contest.

With talent and enthusiasm these gay young artists, led by their president, Rhoda Stone, met weekly with Mrs. Woodberry to dabble in oils, charcoal, or pastels. Throughout the year the club members made several trips to artists' studios where they had the opportunity of watching artists at work and attending lectures and demonstrations. This year the annual Art Contest was open to every student who wished to participate, and the judges included not only the members of the Art Department but also the seniors who were competing for the Lincoln Medal.

By affording a source of expression for those B.H.S. who are interested in Art, the Art Club has fulfilled its purpose of giving students who do not take Art the chance to become familiar with it and to enjoy it.

The blare of trumpets, the sound of clashing cymbals signal the approach of the Brookline High School band, bringing the packed stands at Tech Field to their feet with a mighty roar.

This year was marked by a definite increase in the quality and quantity of the Band's repertoire. Under the baton of Mr. Corley or student leader Dick Jaffe, the Band performed ably at many school events and special functions. The various section leaders of the Band were David Rosenthal, flute and piccolos; Robert Levenson, clarinet; Ralph Wharton, saxophone; Wallace West, French horn; Michael Dukakis, trumpet; Paul Rosenberg, trombone; Bradford Brown, bass; and Gene Farley, drums.

One of the primary duties of our school band was to perform at the home football games. Whether striking up the Alma Mater and bringing the Brookline rooters to their feet, or putting on a between-halves exhibition of playing and precision marching, the constant drill of the Band was evident with its every move.

No one can deny that all eyes were on the Brookline Band as it marched down Tech Field, and it is almost certain that most of the admiring glances were drawn by the shapely and skillful Band Majorettes, led by Head Majorette Lorraine Merrithew and including Mary Jane Coyne, Beatrice Lacy, Pauline Stoia and Betty Walters.

Our Band often outdid itself when called upon for outside engagements. The first of these was when they played at the Boston University versus New York University football game at Fenway Park. Spectators, television fans, and press alike had nothing but high praise for the Corleymen. Later in the year the Bandsmen, for the first time in history, presented a full scale concert. Playing a classical program, the band exhibited its ability to play widely diversified types of music with ease. Finally the entire ensemble participated in the State Music Festival and in the New England Music Festival where its performance established it as one of the best units in Massachusetts.

Thus we hail the 1949 triumphs of our school band and, in doing so, we fully realize that it has set a standard which the aggregations of future years will find difficult to maintain.

BANK STAFF

"Money, money, money. . . . I'm surrounded by it!" This was the silent groan of each member of the Bank Staff on busy bank-day mornings during the year. The Bank Staff, composed of over one hundred and fifty messengers and clerks and aided by Mr. Meyers, has performed an admirable job of depositing the savings of B. H. S. and maintaining the high post-war record, which doubled all pre-war accounts.

Every other Tuesday throughout the year B .H. S. was the scene of furious but efficient activity as the tellers collected and counted the deposits from their respective homerooms, and the messengers carried the money to banking headquarters where it was counted and recounted by Ruth Suskin, Anne Bernstein, and Raisa Kemler, faculty assistants.

The Bank Staff is one of the most vital organizations of the school; for as Mr. Meyers has said, "The teaching of thrift and of regular systematic saving is necessary in order to participate intelligently in adult life." Bank for your future needs. . . . Bank for your own security. . . . Bank for the pressing demands of your senior year!

BIOLOGY CLUB

"He would pore by the hour o'er a weed or a flower, or the slugs that came crawling out after a shower. . . ."

Of course, he was an enthusiastic member of the Biology Club. . . . This year, armed with microscope and butterfly net, these nature enthusiasts captured hapless grasshoppers and butterflies for further observation in the name of science. One hundred strong, the members, under the leadership of Margaret Raulinaitis, participated in many activities devoted to the further study of biology.

Although to some the Biology Room may be a strange and terrifying place with its snakes and animals, to these members it is a fascinating and a wonderful world, especially to William Fleming, who was laboratory manager, and to Leonard Strange, who did a great deal of work in the vivarium this year.

Faculty Open House, sponsored by the Club in October, and the famed annual Science Fair, sponsored by the Biology Club in cooperation with the other science clubs, exhibited the projects of many members. This year, besides having a cook-out and a field trip to Hammond Pond, the group went on its annual outing to Woods Hole to visit the Marine laboratories.

Attainment of the Biology Club's main purpose, to further student interest in the study of biology, is an excellent beginning for developing scientific knowledge in American youth.

Plate, please. . . . Ready for the silver nitrate. . . . Pass the hypo solution. . . . .Quick! the developer. . . . Ah! Finished! It sounded like a major operation to any inexperienced eavesdropper standing outside the B.H.S. darkroom; and it was, for a Camera Club member was in the process of developing a precious roll of film.

This group of twenty-five members, under the leadership of Donald Paulson, spent this year studying the technique of taking, developing, and appreciating good photographs. Admission to the club was based on the members' opinion of the sincerity and interest of the applicants. As a result only students with a real interest in photography gained admittance to the "sanctum sanctorum", the Camera Club.

Highlighting this year's events of picture taking and developing, the Camera Club exhibited its accomplishments, starring the works of Lewis Lubar, Francis Giannetti, and Ernest Fuller, at the annual Science Night this spring. In October the club made a trip to Cape Anne, and later on in the year it held its annual photographic contest. The Camera Club, under the direction of Mr. Beck, has spent an interesting and educational year developing and learning more about the hobby of photography.

CENTRAL TREASURY

In early October of this year the treasurers of almost every organization at B.H.S. could be seen marching along the corridors towards Room 218, round-shouldered from the weight of money-bags over their shoulders. Of course they were going to deposit their club dues in the Central Treasury, the reliable and efficient bank of B.H.S. This year's Treasury consisted of the Treasurer, Mr. Ehnes, with five faculty assistants and five students, chosen for outstanding achievement in the commercial department, including two bookkeepers, Rhodena MacKillop and Jean Brady, and three typists, Jean Grant, Nancy Krapf, and Martha Linnell. Before the tenth of every month this year, the Treasury was extremely busy, preparing and issuing monthly reports to activity treasurers concerning their balance and accounts. Besides these special reports, the members kept the books and had the important task of handling all payments made from school organizations. Constantly dealing with large sums of money, for instance, the six thousand one hundred and one dollars received in receipts this September, gives the student members an opportunity for preparing for positions in the commercial field. Besides giving training to its members, the Central Treasury has been a great help to the school by safeguarding and recording the funds of all B.H.S. activities.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Waving their test tubes high in a toast to the purposes and achievements of the Chemistry Club, these young scientists have ended another interesting and educational year delving into the ancient lore of chemistry.

In order to gain a more practical knowledge of the subject, the members visited several industrial factories, including the B and B Chemical Plant where they watched chemicals being combined and processed. Throughout the year they had several opportunities to see demonstrations and motion pictures which emphasized the new discoveries and the growing fields of chemistry. The club members, led by their president, Robert Rosenthal, produced many excellent projects which were exhibited, along with those of the other science clubs, at the annual Science Night this spring.

Under the capable leadership of Faculty Advisers Miss Murdock and Mr. Warren, the members of the Chemistry Club have shown initiative and ability in exploring fields of chemical experimentation left untouched by regular classroom discussions.

CHESS CLUB

The time: about 4:00 on any Friday afternoon during the year. The place: Room 322. The scene: a boy is playing chess, staring at the chess-men on the board before him or grimly facing his opponent in mortal combat while spending a few minutes in profound thought. With a final survey of his opponent's chessmen and a deft movement of the piece in his hand, his victorious shout, "Check mate!" resounds through the room. ". . . He thinks too much: such men are dangerous."

This scene took place many times throughout the year when the Chess Club, under the guidance of Dr. Andree, practiced for its contests with Boston English High School, Boston Latin School, Cambridge Latin School, Milton High School, and Roxbury Latin School. Leading this year's group both in ability and enthusiasm were Stanley Bloom, Chess Club president, Edward Cauley, Joseph Richard, Robert Rosenthal, and Hovey Tyndall, veterans of last year's Chess Club, who won many victories for the B.H.S. team. The Chess Club not only enables skilled chess players to meet their matches, but it also gives an opportunity for novices to acquire ability and old-timers to improve their skill in the ever-popular game of chess.

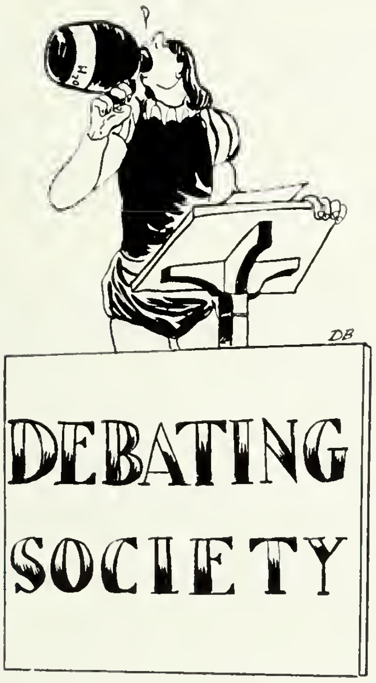
CHORAL SOCIETY

CHORAL SOCIETY

Mr. Zanzig took his place at the piano, nodded to the group before him, and the one hundred golden-throated songbirds of the Choral Society sent their thrilling melody to every corner of the Music Room. This typical occurrence took place every Monday afternoon throughout the year when the Choral Society met to perfect new melodies, to practice for performances, or to sing for the sheer joy of singing.

The members of this year's Society participated in various B.H.S. programs, including the Thanksgiving assembly and the spring operetta. One of this year's outstanding events was the annual Christmas-Chanukah Festival in which the Society sang group and solo selections with the impressive holiday theme as a background.

The members of the Choral Society have added greatly to the pleasures of the school by their excellent singing, and what is more, they have all enjoyed it, for as Mr. Zanzig says, "When singing is done well, it is keen fun!"



DEBATING SOCIETY

The moderator stepped down, and the battle began. Lefts, rights, crosses, hooks and one-two punches were exchanged—all verbally, of course, for this is a typical Brookline High School Debate, not a bout at the Boston Garden. Under the able leadership of President Carl Sapers, the Debating Society has just completed a stimulating year. With five inter-scholastic debates scheduled, the first-line debaters, Carl Sapers, Janet Welsh, Elaine Stern, and Paul Rosenberg, put up many an excellent forensic battle. This year there were debates with Boston Latin, Newton, and Andover Academy. The Debating Society members saw some very fine exhibitions and were convinced that Brookline might well be proud of its hard-working orators.

Several exhibition debates were held between teams composed of members of the Society, which gave valuable experience to the participants not only in proficient debating and clear thinking, but also in effective speaking, the main aim of the organization.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY

Imagine, yourself, a visitor from the west, who coming to Brookline for the first time, is learning about the activities at Brookline High.

One of the largest organizations at Brookline High, sir, is our Dramatic Society. In past years, they have built up a great reputation by presenting the likes of "Stage Door", "Suspect, "Our Town", "Murder In The Cathedral", and "The Taming of the Shrew". This year, they kept up the fine tradition by putting on a wonderful performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace".

What's that, sir? Oh yes, one of the top-actors, Arthur Berg, was also a very efficient president. Of course, with Joan Walden as Secretary and Polly Marson as Treasurer, art had plenty of inspiration, anyway! The Society was full of talented actors and actresses, most of whom were seniors; but never fear for the Society, for in the coming year, there is bound to be another gala season.

What were the objectives of the Society? According to Miss Folsom, our charming and capable director, the Society wanted first of all to give the students of B.H.S. a chance to display their dramatic abilities on stage (as a prelude to Broadway, of course). Secondly, it wished to present to the members the techniques and fine points of acting which not only make for better acting, but make acting much more interesting; and thirdly, to maintain an appreciation of current plays and actors. In the Society, there was not only an Acting Group, but a Stage Workshop, an Advertising Committee, and a Ticket Committee, all of which took important roles in the operation of the Society. It was the combined efforts of all of these groups which helped make a good production.

Since only members of the three upper houses were eligible for membership, the Society set up a farm team which was known as the Freshman Workshop. There, our neophytic Hepburns and Barrymores gained their first experience in preparing for the years they will be in the parent club. Under the direction of Jane Silverman, the fledglings learned a great deal about dramatic techniques and will make a good addition to the Society.

Not only did the Society present plays, but also had luminaries of the theatrical world come as guest speakers to meetings. These people gave us many interesting insights into life on the stage.

Now that you've seen all the workings of the Dramatic Society, it is easy to see the fine things that have been accomplished in the past year, and also see the reasons for its great popularity at Brookline High School.

ENGLISH CLUB

Thirty-five "intellectuals", guided by Miss Tiews and Mrs. Ross, have organized a society for the prevention of indifference to literary achievement.

This year the Literary Society has been divided into two groups, the Readers, who furthered their knowledge of the world's great literature through the medium of book reports and group discussions, and the Writers, who gained facility in the art of writing by preparing poems and compositions for each meeting.

At joint meetings throughout the year the two groups heard several interesting speakers, including Mr. Williams, who spoke of his experience as an exchange teacher in Seattle, Washington, and Joyce Speigel, who gave a talk on the Youth Hostel trip which she had made during the previous summer.

As a new and progressive organization, the Literary Society has been unique in its lack of permanent officers and its informal round-table "chats." A long waiting list of eager candidates verified the success of the entire program which was designed to serve each individual member as a means of expression and enjoyment.

FRENCH CLUB

"I shall never move thee in French, unless it be to laugh at me . . ." they thought when they were Freshmen, but did you hear them at this year's French Club meetings, all en français? Yes, they were members of Le Cercle Français, listening to and speaking the language of France at meetings throughout the year. According to Club Adviser, Miss Douglass, special emphasis has been placed on actual conversation in French. That is why a fair knowledge of the language is a requirement for admission.

This year the monthly club meetings began in October with Miss O'Brien's account of her sojourn in France. Highlighting each meeting was the group of "Rossignols" (nightingales) led by popular guitarist, Anne Bernstein. Activities have included plays, games, musical programs, folk dances, and a special Christmas program with French carols. The French Club has given enthusiastic students many opportunities to enjoy French informally.

Future homemakers do not come made-to-order. It takes patient and sincere application to produce a young woman who can well be called an excellent homemaker.

This year Miss South and Miss Egan have trained their thirty-five disciples in all the domestic skills that every girl should know. During the months preceding Christmas the members put their talents to excellent use by preparing and sending packages of food and presents to their adopted school in Germany, as their contribution to the Christmas Festival.

At the annual inter-school meeting F.H.A. members had the opportunity of meeting other girls with similar interests in family life and general homemaking. As members of this nation-wide organization, delegates of the club attended the state meeting where officers were elected and plans were made for the coming year. Since the F.H.A. is the only organization in B.H.S. offering a curriculum of homemaking, it has maintained an enthusiastic group of students genuinely interested in domestic science.

GERMAN CLUB

If you'd like to sing German songs, see movies, and listen to sermons by "mystical Germans" the German Club is the place for you. This year the club's objective, to further student interest in the history, customs, and language of Germany, was pursued by a program of varied activities of interest to all the members. The major events of the year were a tour of the German Museum at Cambridge in April and the annual German Club picnic at Hammond Pond in May, providing lots of food and fun for all. Besides trips and outings, this organization, composed of fourteen enthusiastic students of German, held its monthly meetings, beginning in late October when the members enjoyed German films and records plus American ice-cream. Other meetings of the year, under the direction of President Rolf Kates and chairman of Entertainment Sonya Van-Dam, featured songs, movies, and lectures which depicted the German way of life. Besides their lighter interests, the members enjoyed discussions of the current events and vital problems of Germany. Ending another season of fun while learning, the German Club looks forward to many more years of similar activities under the guidance and instruction of its faculty adviser, Mr. Friedland.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

"A friend in need is a friend indeed" might well be the motto of the Girls' League, always ready to aid and support a worthy cause. This year's League, under the leadership of Joyce Allen, performed many valuable duties both in and out of school, besides sponsoring several B.H.S. social functions.

One of the most important committees of the League was the Service Committee, headed by Elise Alberts and composed of a large number of League members who were interested in serving their school and their neighbors. These girls devoted their time to working in the Kindergarten, running the switchboard, and helping in settlement houses. The Service Committee also sponsored the Christmas Workshop to make dolls, toys, and scrapbooks for needy children.

This year the League's social activities were numerous and successful, beginning in late September with the Acquaintance Parties, held by the senior advisers, to introduce the freshmen to one another and to the League. The next gala event of the year was the Halowe'en Party, sponsored by Packard House, where the usual rituals of apple bobbing, fortune telling, and cider drinking were performed in an eerie atmosphere of goblins and witches. Ye Olde Municipal Gym put on a new dress of gay party decorations on December 17, when the Girls' League held its annual Christmas Formal to the dreamy music of Chappie Arnold. The annual Supper Party in March gave the League members an opportunity to enjoy a hearty meal and an excellent program presented by Akers House, the sponsors. During April and May social chairmen served tea and crumpets at the Farewell Tea and the various Mothers' Teas, which gave parents and teachers the opportunity of meeting one another.

During the year, throughout all its activities, the League has carried out its principal objective of promoting the spirit of good fellowship and loyalty in its members, both to each other and to B.H.S. The many committees of the Girls' League invite every girl to join their ranks, and as Miss Sawyer has said "There is a place in the League for every girl in the school, and we are trying to help each girl find her place." The Girls' League has been and will continue to be one of the most important organizations of B.H.S. because it offers every girl the chance to take an active part in its service and social activities.

GIRLS' VOCAL ENSEMBLE

Music hath charms to soothe the savage student. Thirty chirping damsels comprised this year's Girls' Vocal Ensemble, an organization formed so that those who enjoy singing may have the opportunity to contribute to the social life of the school. The most melodious of the voices which serenaded so beautifully were those of Janis Coffey, Barbara Dundas, Africa Hayes, Jayne Lipman, Lois Manecofsky and Selma Ruskin. These members were chosen from the ranks of the Choral Society, and thus they represented the best female voices in the school.

This year the Girls' Vocal Ensemble starred in the programs celebrating various holidays, including Thanksgiving and Christmas. These talented girls spent hours of careful practice before each performance, in order to achieve the harmonious perfection for which they were so acclaimed.

In the formation of the Madrigal Society, Mr. Zanzig revived a musical group which was very popular in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The eleven members, selected for their harmonizing voices, sang choral selections at the Christmas-Chanukah Festival. Thanks to the Girls' Vocal Ensemble and the other musical organizations of the school, music, "the universal language," has enriched many B.H.S. programs during the year.

LIBRARY STAFF

Contrary to the opinion that a library is a cold, lonely institution where long-forgotten volumes are stacked away on dusty shelves by long-forgotten librarians, the B.H.S. library is a scene of bustling activity during every school day.

Highlighting the year's events was the annual Library Staff-Radio Club Christmas Party, complete with Christmas tree, carols, and Christmas candy. In February the club paid tribute to the ideals of "Brotherhood Week" with a meeting at which representatives of Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths were guest speakers. At its monthly meetings, directed by President Amelia Stern, the club emphasized joint activities with organizations, including the Debating Society and the French Club.

Guided by Miss Philips, Miss Siagel, and Mrs. Champagne, the members of the Library Staff have given valuable service to the school by working in the library.

LUNCHROOM STAFF

" Yon Cassius has a lean and hungry look. . . ." He couldn't have eaten lunch in the B.H.S. cafeteria this year, not with Miss Marion Cronan as acting director and Mrs. Jean Marks as dietician. This year's student Lunchroom Staff consisted of fourteen students, eight full-time and six part-time workers. These boys and girls in white helped in the kitchen and around the lunchroom, served the meals, and supervised the complicated process of feeding a hungry multitude.

If you've ever wondered where the food served in the B.H.S. lunchroom is prepared, you couldn't have seen the clean, efficient kitchen and the competent workers who prepared and served the food this year. With Mrs. Hilda Curtis, head baker, and Miss Marie Gebauer, head cook for twenty-nine years, whipping up delicious sandwiches, hot-dishes, and desserts, B.H.S. has remained happy, healthy, and well-fed.

Under the Federal School Lunch Program, milk has been sold with the hot-dish, thus milk sales zoomed to an increase of two hundred bottles. The Lunchroom Staff has done a fine job, and B.H.S. proudly salutes it for its faithful service.

MUSIC SOCIETY

Music exists for the benefit of those who appreciate and understand it; the meaning and the beauty it provides can be measured only in terms of its effect on music lovers. Whether or not the fifty-three members who comprised the Music Society this year aspired to be great composers or performers, each of them found satisfaction and enjoyment in listening to, and discussing the "world's finest" music.

At the monthly meetings, planned by the Program Chairman Peter Marino and directed by President Richard Jaffe, this group listened to every kind of music from Bach and Brahms to Kenton and Kaye, and discussed the merits and demerits of the composition or performance of each musician. Throughout the year several outside artists appeared as guest speakers, including Mr. Vanig Housepian, the arranger for Lionel Hampton. Mr. Joslin hopes that the musical discrimination and appreciation which are cultivated in the Music Society will form a vital and an increasingly important factor in the lives of the members of the Music Society.

ORCHESTRA

"Mr. Usher, why does Brookline use records for music between the acts of its plays?"

"That's no record, sire ,that's our orchestra! Look right down front."

"A high school orchestra playing as well as that? Incredible!"

"Yes sir, that's one of the organizations of which Brookline is really very proud." That conversation would undoubtedly warm the hearts of the whole orchestra and of its hard-working director, Mr. Joslin.

On any Tuesday afternoon this year, the orchestra could be found in the Music Room perfecting anything from a Romberg melody to a Rossini tarantella. After a particularly well-played number, the orchestra would know it had reached virtual perfection when it heard an excited "Mel-lo!!!" from the trombone section.

The orchestra has played at the Dramatics Society functions, at Prize Speaking, and at many school assemblies. Most important of all, the orchestra performed at graduation. Any 1949 graduate could describe the wonderful feeling he had marching down the aisle on graduation night to the strains of a stirring march.

ORPHEUS ENSEMBLE

In Greek mythology Orpheus was a wonderful lute player, who, in quest of his lost love, Eurydice, wandered throughout the earth playing sad music in an effort to find her. According to the Greeks his music was said to have been the sweetest, most pleasing and melodious of all.

It is interesting that the chamber music society at B. H. S. has adopted the name of this mythical musician. This year the ensemble, composed of nine members of the orchestra, who were personally invited to participate by the director, Mr. Joslin, rendered music to equal that of Orpheus. Richard Jaffe and Josephine Silbert, pianists, and Rosamond Drooker, violist, were the senior members, although all the other members could well be mentioned for their outstanding musical ability.

During the year the ensemble played for several civic organizations and for concerts presented by the Brookline Music School. Although the average student rarely hear the Orpheus Ensemble, the efforts of its members have shown that the classics are not yet extinct at B. H. S.

Under the leadership of Faculty Adviser Mr. Wells and President Richard Jaffe, the members of the Physics Club gained a great deal of practical knowledge in the field of physics by actively participating in the club activities.

At their club meetings the scientifically-minded students of B.H.S. discussed many physical principles, such as the various aspects of electricity and radio, the mechanical advantage of the diesel engine, and fundamental theories of television. Throughout the year the group had the opportunity of seeing several interesting experiments, including a test of the lighting properties of neon by using the Telsa Coil.

The Physics Club is actual proof that many students of B.H.S. are exceptionally interested in the study and the practical application of physics.

"Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears." Shhh! Quiet in the broadcasting studio, please. Can't you see a member of the Radio Club is on the air?

This year the Radio Club, under the direction of Mrs. Greenberg, presented an Armistice Day Program on WVOM entitled Two Minutes vs. Thirty Years, starring Glenna Bass, Herbert Carver, Robert Ullian, Alan MacGillivray, and Jane Silverman. Also, on WVOM, the Radio Club presented a Christmas Program. Once every month the club took part in a Talent Show on WORL and occasionally in a Round Table Discussion on WHDH. Other attractions on this year's Radio Club agenda were guest speakers from various radio stations; a group trip to see the motion picture, Hamlet, in November; and group tours through radio stations. Highlighting the year's events was a Disc Jockey Contest; the lucky winner presented his own program on WVOM.

RED CROSS

The Red Cross is the symbol of hope and relief to countless thousands of homeless and destitute people throughout the world; and, to this year's one hundred and thirty Red Cross Representatives of B.H.S., it has been a symbol of service and of an opportunity for devoting time and energy to a wonderful cause. This year the Red Cross, working in collaboration with the Art and Homemaking Departments, sent Christmas and Thanksgiving cookies and menus to service hospitals throughout the country. The Red Cross filled and sent gift boxes to children overseas during October and November, sent reading material to various hospitals in November and December, and sponsored the Junior Red Cross National Children's Fund Drive in March.

The officers of this year's organization, headed by Alma Berkman, chairman of the Junior Red Cross Council, were appointed by Mr. Edmunds for their outstanding service.

"All the news that fits—we print!" is the unofficial motto of the Sagamore. Promptly at one-thirty a line forms at the door of the Sagamore Room waiting for Libby Blank, advertising manager, and possessor of the sole key. Several reporters rush in to tell the News Editor, Barbara Fine, that their stories are only one hundred words instead of three hundred and fifty, or that there wasn't any information on their assignment, or that another reporter, and her big story, were quarantined for two weeks. Larry Harrison, sports editor, runs in to show a new play the basketball team has just perfected. Feature editor, Joan Walden, rushed around, frantically collecting typed feature material from Head Typist Rosalyn Klein, saying to Ralph Wharton, editor-in-chief, "But Ralph, it's only three days late." This is the point where Ralph would probably like to blow his brains out, but he has learned that this is only the beginning, and he must conserve his strength.

After each story has been rewritten by one of the rewrite editors, Anne Bernstein, Gloria Henken, Raisa Kemler, or Phyllis Tumaroff, and typed by one of the faithful typists, Janet Markowitz, Barbara Kurhan, or Sandra Stolzberg, it's checked by Barbara Nesson, assistant news editor. Then all the material goes home with Ralph. Disregarding math, history, and English, he finishes up odds and ends, and if lucky, gets out to the printer's before eleven o'clock that night. Next morning the printer finds stories from the Sagamore under a rock at just about the time a housewife takes in her milk.

Again, on make-up day, everyone rushes down to the Sag Room at one-thirty, waiting for Ralph and Harriet Sagoff, technical editor, to return from the printer's with galleys, long strips of paper containing all the stories, which have to be cut up and pasted on a "dummy" sheet. "Well, are we all ready?" Ralph asks innocently, coming in at four-thirty.

Everyone starts seriously about his work, then runs for an open window when the cover of the paste jar is lifted. A few hardened souls eventually become accustomed to it.

The last head is finally pasted on, methodical Harriet has remembered to change the date and number of the issue, and in walk cartoonist Don Bloom and photographer Karl Schwartzenberg to see their works of art on the dummy.

Folks coming in for evening school stare in astonishment at anyone foolish enough to miss dinner just for a high school newspaper. But the Sagamore staff realizes the tremendous task before them, and carries it out conscientiously. They regard putting out a paper a hobby, and almost an avocation, rather than a drudgery.

SOCIAL CUSTOMS CLUB

The strains of a familiar tune, the shuffling of feet, and the sound of happy voices issuing from the Fireplace Room announced the bi-weekly "juke-box" sessions which were the outstanding contributions of the Social Customs Club this year. The club also trained and provided ushers for several school and civic functions and for many productions of the Dramatic Society.

Membership was open to the students of social customs classes and to all other girls who were approved by the club executive committee on the basis of their genuine interest in the functions of the organization. The festive parties and picnics sponsored by the group gave each member an opportunity to plan party refreshments, entertainment, and decorations.

This year Mrs. Means planned the presentation of a series of lectures on boy-girl relationships, customs of yesterday and today, and vocational guidance. The members, led by President Mary Young, received training in homemaking, leadership, and personality which helped them to become an asset to B.H.S. and to the community.

SPANISH CLUB

The samba, rhumba, and tango are the best Latin American ambassadors that we have ever had. However, the atmosphere of Spain has invaded not only the dance halls, but also the sacred halls of B.H.S. Under the guidance of Miss Holbrook, faculty adviser, those students who were studying Spanish this year engaged in singing, dancing, and speaking according to the customs of their "borrowed land."

The members, led by President Bradford Brown, took part in monthly meetings during the year planned by Program Chairman Arlene Cohen, and featuring speakers, games, and music of Spain. In early November, Miss Anita Oyarzabal spoke to the club about life in Spain, supplementing her talk with colorful Spanish costumes and songs. The annual Christmas meeting featured the traditional pinata accompanied by Spanish carols. As soon as warm weather returned, the club had an outing at Hammond Pond.

This year's many and diversified activities enabled the enthusiastic student of Spanish to become better acquainted with the language and customs of Spain.

"Look! that door is slowly swinging open! And there's a strange light that is growing brighter and brighter! What can it be?" We cant tell you what the mysterious "it" is, but if that scene occurred in a Dramatic Society production, it would be safe to assume that the Stage and Electrical Staffs were on the job, for some Stage Staff member was probably pushing the door open, and some Electrician was pulling the switches to produce the desired effect.

The Stage Staff, under the direction of Jimmy Fishel, and the Electrical Staff, led by Bertie Bernstein, had a very important task this past year, for it was they who kept productions running smoothly. The two departments were in complete charge backstage during assemblies and performances, and all our speakers and actors would be willing to give a great deal of credit to these hard-working people, the Stage and Electrical Staffs.

STAMP CLUB

If you should ever discover an inverted, twenty-four cent air mail stamp, run, don't walk, to the nearest stamp dealer. You will promptly be well recompensed, for he would be willing to pay a great deal for that gaily-colored little oblong of sticky-backed paper. Besides sharpening your wits, stamp collecting sharpens your geography, and so if you don't know where Tanna Tuva is located, and you've never heard of Danzig, you'd better join the Stamp Club.

At meetings under the direction of President Joseph Richard and Faculty Adviser, Mr. Smith, the nineteen members heard talks given by the more experienced collectors of the group on their own collections and on the various phases of stamp-collecting. After each meeting, trading sessions were held during which stamps of every shape and color were sold or exchanged.

The sole purpose of the club has been to interest the student in stamp collecting, one of the most well-known and widely-practiced hobbies in the world.

"Exactly what do you mean by your previous statement, sir? I don't think you made yourself clear."

"Well, er. . ." And he said to himself, "I never expected such a probing question from a high school student!"

Thus another visiting speaker has learned that he cannot trifle with the well-informed members of the Student Forum.

This year the principal aim of the forum was to discuss and become better acquainted with current affairs through the medium of motion pictures, debates, and guest speakers. Several prominent speakers of the year included Mr. Richard Bowers, Reverend David Hunter, Reverend Donald Lothrop, and Mr. James Meuse, who expressed their opinions on many vital topics, including the presidential elections and the Palestine situation. Following every forum meeting, the members had the opportunity of giving their opinions on the topic or asking pertinent questions.

Throughout the year, Faculty Adviser Mr. Merrill and President Carl Sapers worked to keep the forum in the high position it has occupied for the past few years. Needless to say, they succeeded, for the Student Forum was one of the most popular organizations in the school, having a membership of over three hundred and fifty students.

This year the Handbook editorial committee, led by Edward Fleischman, editor-in-chief, was composed of the reporters, who collected the necessary information, and the editors, who compiled the material. Because of its expert salesmanship, the circulation staff, headed by James Fishel, did an excellent job distributing a record number of Handbooks.

Being a helpful source of information, the Handbook was used as a text-book in many civics and freshman English classes.

Student organizations supported the book, and with a vote of thanks to them and to Miss Johnson, faculty adviser, the Student Handbook committee has ended another successful year of publication.

TOUCHDOWN CLUB

For the best in B.H.S.'s husky male athletes consult the Touchdown Club because every member of the club is on the Freshman, Junior Varsity, or Varsity football team.

Guest speakers on this year's Touchdown Club agenda included Herbert Kopf, backfield coach of Boston College; Henry Buckley, line coach at Tufts College; and Ralph Colson, Assistant Director of Physical Education at the University of Pennsylvania. The ninety-five members of the club, led by President Paul May and Vice President Thomas Nagi, received valuable instruction during the year from the motion pictures of former games, including those with Quincy, Watertown, and Weymouth.

This year the club sponsored its three annual affairs with great success, the gala Sports Dance in February, the thrilling faculty-varsity basketball game in March, and the famed football banquet in May. The Touchdown Club, directed by Coach Downes, has done an excellent job this year by promoting a better knowledge of football and a keener school spirit among its members.

SENIOR LETTERMEN

This organization is made up of those seniors who have earned their letter in some sport at B.H.S. They are the honored upperclassmen who are privileged to wear a letter. Ask them about the grueling hours of practice, the morning-after stiffness, and all the prodding, some gentle and some harsh, from the coaches. Was it worth it all? They'll all answer with an emphatic "yes".

These men have been awarded their letters because of their active participation in the athletic program or by contributing greatly to the welfare and success of B.H.S.

COACH DOWNES AND TOM NAGI DISCUSS STRATEGY.

OLD ENGLISH B

"I've got it! I've got it! Whoopee—I've got my Old English B." During the year this gladsome shriek resounded through the Municipal Gym many times as the female athletes of B.H.S. received the felt symbols which connote interest and proficiency in the field of athletics. To receive an Old English B, it is necessary to earn a grand total of five hundred points in extracurricular athletics; fifty points per term are awarded for participation in a sport, and one hundred points, for being a member of the Varsity Team. The fact that more than thirteen girls have received two B's at the end of this year is proof of outstanding interest in sports.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Starting off from scratch late in November, Brookline anticipated another drole season for its win-starved basketball team. But with Johnny Grinnell back at the helm, the team developed fast, improving from game to game. In Captain Bob Rubin and Ronnie Greenberg, transfer from New York, Brookline possessed one of the finest pair of guards in the suburban conference. Both handled the ball like veterans, both could shoot, and together they "made" Brookline's basketball team. In the "key-hole" shot Charlie Smythe, a bearcat on rebounds and tip-ins and John Horwitz alternated. "Red" Shultz and Dick Kirby manned the forward positions. Other men who saw a lot of action were Phil Cohen, Paul and Joe May, Ed Yarckin, and Bob Grodberg.

Grinnell employed a man-to-man defense throughout the season and was partial to the "figure eight" offense. Key man in this offense was Greenberg, and the "little General" crossed off the opposition invariably with his quick passes to Rubin or any other man who was "open".

The "Wealthy Towners" enjoyed their most successful season in many years, and with several men returning next year, 1950 should produce a vastly improved team.

J. V. BASKETBALL

THE PLAN: Building up a basketball team of Sophomores and Juniors.

THE MOTIVE: To insure experienced, rugged basketball players for the next two years, with the anticipated result of finishing in the first division of the suburban conference.

This plan was put into effect from the outset of practice by Coach Grinnell. The result has been a vastly improved team by the end of the season, and some very promising young men. Notables among the Junior Varsity were Ed Yarckin and Joe May who played on the Varsity in addition to the preliminary games. Other men who played a considerable amount of basketball were Bob Wool, Jim Palais, Marty Leppo, Ronnie Kelm, Leo Fitzgerald, and Mike Dukakis. The team came first after 1948 had left us. In the next two years those boys, who wore the "Red and Blue" in the preliminary games will be the stars on the Varsity.

VARSITY BASEBALL

With the loss of only three key men from last year's near-championship squad, the B.H.S. "nine" started off this season in quest of the title that has been evading them for years. Sparked by Marty Yogel and Tommy Day, the greatest battery in recent years, and backed with solid hitting and smooth fielding from Tom Nagi, Tom Fay, and Neil Werner, the Fitzgeraldmen showed great promise at the outset of the season. Bob Nelson, Paul May, and Jim Mulloy pitched the most consistent ball throughout the year, and Irwin Litronic, Paul O'Connor, and "Porky" Farley, outstanding for their brilliant fielding, stopped many an opponent's run.

The 1949 team was one of the best seen at Brookline, and its spirit and drive won the support of the entire school.

GOLF

With four returning lettermen from last year's squad, the 1949 golf team, headed by Captain Leo Mullin, had another excellent season of inter-scholastic competition. Dan Murphy, a consistent seventy's shooter; Bill Rydell, a transfer student from Wisconsin; and several underclassmen composed the rest of the team.

Although hampered by the elements during the greater part of last year's golf season, Brookline gained state-wide recognition when Leo Mullin took third place in the state medalist tournament. The outstanding ability displayed during this year's matches at the Brookline Municipal Golf Course was further proof of the high caliber of the B. H. S. golf team.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Nine months ago, thirty-four boys turned out for the initial varsity football practice under Coach Downes' critical eye. In this elite group there stood but two lettermen from the 1947 Class "B" championship squad. That lack of experience was enough to make any coach pessimistic, and when Brookline was moved up to Class "A" competition, all hopes of another championship were dropped. Downes then turned to the task of moulding a team capable of upholding Brookline's reputation on the gridiron, and one which would also gain experience for future seasons.

With Tom Nagi, captain-elect, leading the way, Brookline traveled to Saugus to open the 1948 football season. They returned with a hard earned 7-6 victory. On their first home encounter the powerful Quincy eleven rallied to defeat Brookline 25-13. Weymouth and Fitchburg handed successive defeats on the "Red and Blue," 20-0 and 14-6 respectively. Rebounding from the doldrums of the three successive defeats, Downes' boys lashed Rindge Tech, 38-7. Waltham's speed proved too much for Brookline as they succumbed by a score of 20-8. Not to be denied, Brookline came to take on a 13-7 decision from Belmont. Watertown passed its way to a 13-6 victory over the "Wealthy Towners" in its final home appearance. Closing the season with the traditional "Turkey Day" game with Newton, Brookline went down fighting, after leading at half time 7-6. The final score stood 24 for Newton and 13 for Brookline.

The cry is wait till next year. With the loss of only a few key men, B.H.S. anticipates the return of the championships it enjoyed from 1945 to 1947.

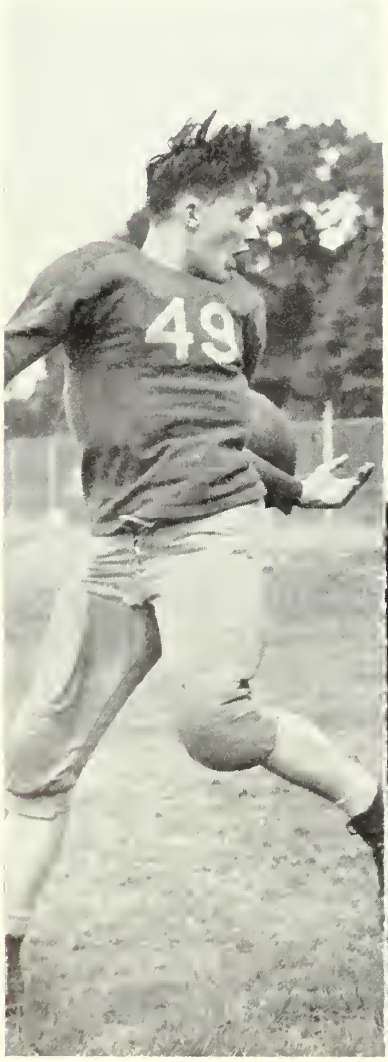
IT'S ONLY PRACTICE, PETE.



J. V. FOOTBALL

Under Clem McCann's scrutinizing gaze, the 1948 edition of the Junior Varsity football squad enjoyed a better-than-average season by winning five games, losing three and tying one. Through the season McCann trained these future varsity athletes in fundamentals: blocking, tackling, passing, running and kicking, the ingredients necessary for a winning team.

Some of the more promising Jay Vees included Larry Wilson, sophomore passer Billy Raia, Roach, Young, Al Genepra, Bob Broadbent, and Joe May. The team reached the high point of the season in the final game of the year when it crushed B.C. High, 28-0. The team had been "fired up" for this game by their disappointing tie with Newton the previous week.

The Jay-Vees show promise of becoming part of "the return of champions," which Brookline High School anticipates in the immediate future. Watch these boys in years to come. They may surprise even the most ardent optimists.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Although the '48 edition of the Freshman Football Team finished the season with the mediocre record of one win, one tie, and four defeats, Coach Jim Jordan accomplished his primary objective of training players in football fundamentals for future seasons. After a fine start, trouncing Rindge Tech 12-7, the "frosh", constantly hampered by injuries to key players, stumbled through the rest of the season suffering successive defeats at the hands of Medford, Melrose, Somerville, and Needham, and were held to a scoreless tie by a weak Wellesley eleven. Even though the "frosh" gained only a single victory, they were rewarded for the weeks of grueling practice by the knowledge that they were well trained for future seasons of Varsity and Junior Varsity competition.

ROW 1: Dockser, Waxer, LeVine, Goldman, Werner, Katz, Gordon, Burstein.

ROW 2: Brown, Halpern, Mackey, Leavitt, Harrison, Deitch, Silverman, Brooks, B. Bernstein, Cohen, Mr. Hegarty.

With several lettermen returning from last year, the 1949 Winter Track Team had a highly successful season. Captain Paul Goldman led the team with consistent victories in the shot-put and the hurdles. Dick LeVine was a standout in the dashes as were Saul Helpern and John Thompson. In the distance events Sid Dockster, Henri Lion, Sheldon Cohen, Burt Deitch, and Frank Axelrod were the most consistent runners. Larry Harrison was rarely beaten in the high jump and was ably backed by Barry Brooks and Bob Gonzales. The relay team of Helpern, Goldman, Thompson, and Dick LeVine apologized to no one. Most of the men who have been mentioned are seniors, and their graduation will mean that Coach Hegarty will have to build almost an entirely new team next year.

Coach: MR. HEGARTY

Led by Captain Paul Goldman, the B. H. S. Spring Track Team enjoyed a highly successful track season with several entries in the State Meet. Goldman specialized in the shot-put, but also ran the hurdles and high jumped. Crack sprinters included veterans Saul Helpern and Dick LeVine, and newcomers John Thompson, Bob Gordon and Neil Werner. The distance men, thought by many to be crazy or else gluttons for punishment, were led by Cross Country Captain Sheldon Cohen, Sid Dockster, Fred Caploe, Henri Lions, a promising sophomore, and Tom Berry. These men were found doing five or even ten laps around Tech Field almost every day. They are the real heroes of a track meet. Among them were Larry Harrison, Barry Brooks, and Bob Gonzales, high jumpers; Jim Mulloy, Joe Shailick, and Paul Goldman in the shot-put.

Several men who have one or two years of eligibility left were uncovered by Coach Hegarty during the season, so he has a nucleus from which to build next year's team.

Coach: MR. HEGARTY

Though led by a sensational sophomore in the person of Henri Lions, who finished near the top in the State Meet, the B. H. S. Cross Country ended a dismal season with no wins. Their Captain, Sheldon Cohen, was out for the season with an injury, and the team missed Cohen's inspiration.

The outlook for next year is very promising with over half of the team returning. Among others who panted through the grueling season were Bob Murrey, a fast running freshman, Berl Cohen, Willie White, Larry Rosenthal, Roger Stern, John Cochran, and Burton Bartzoff.

SWIMMING

Aided by two returning lettermen, Coach Coutts and his 1949 Swimming Team enjoyed a highly successful season. Their schedule included both high school and college opponents, but the "mermen" upheld Brookline's reputation against all comers.

Leading off with Captain Bob Gonzales, who was rarely beaten in the dives, and Tom Sexton, one of the greatest backstrokers in the Massachusetts school boy ranks, B. H. S. had the foundation from which to build a team. In the fifty yard free style, Bob Mulloney was the standout. Charles Egan, Ernie Weiss, Dick Hennessee, Paul Friedman, Herb Bickerstaff, Gardner Davidson, and Bob Parker rounded out the rest of the team. These boys saw the most action during the season, but there were others who were entered in certain meets. Many of the afore mentioned are underclassmen and will be back, thrashing up and down the pool in the years ahead. Coach Coutts anticipates an even better season in 1950, and from his material it's hard to see how he can miss.

ROW 1: Dukakis, Cauley, Lewis, Harrison, Leavitt, Ullian, Traub.

TENNIS

Headed by Larry Harrison, captain and number one man, the B.H.S. tennis team enjoyed a better than average season. Teamed with Harrison in the doubles was Dick O'Hearn; together they gained many points for the "Red and Blue." Bob Rubin and Ed Cauley rounded out the first "four." Sophomores Walt Galford and Dukakis showed great promise throughout the season, and should be great in the next two years. Cal Gross, Herb Swartz, Ed Leavitt, Larry Lewis, Don Silver, and Arthur Traub compiled their share of points to the Brookline total during the past season. During the '48 season, Wall's men were hampered by rain and private school "racqueteers". In '49, though not able to control the elements, they evened some scores with their private school rivals.

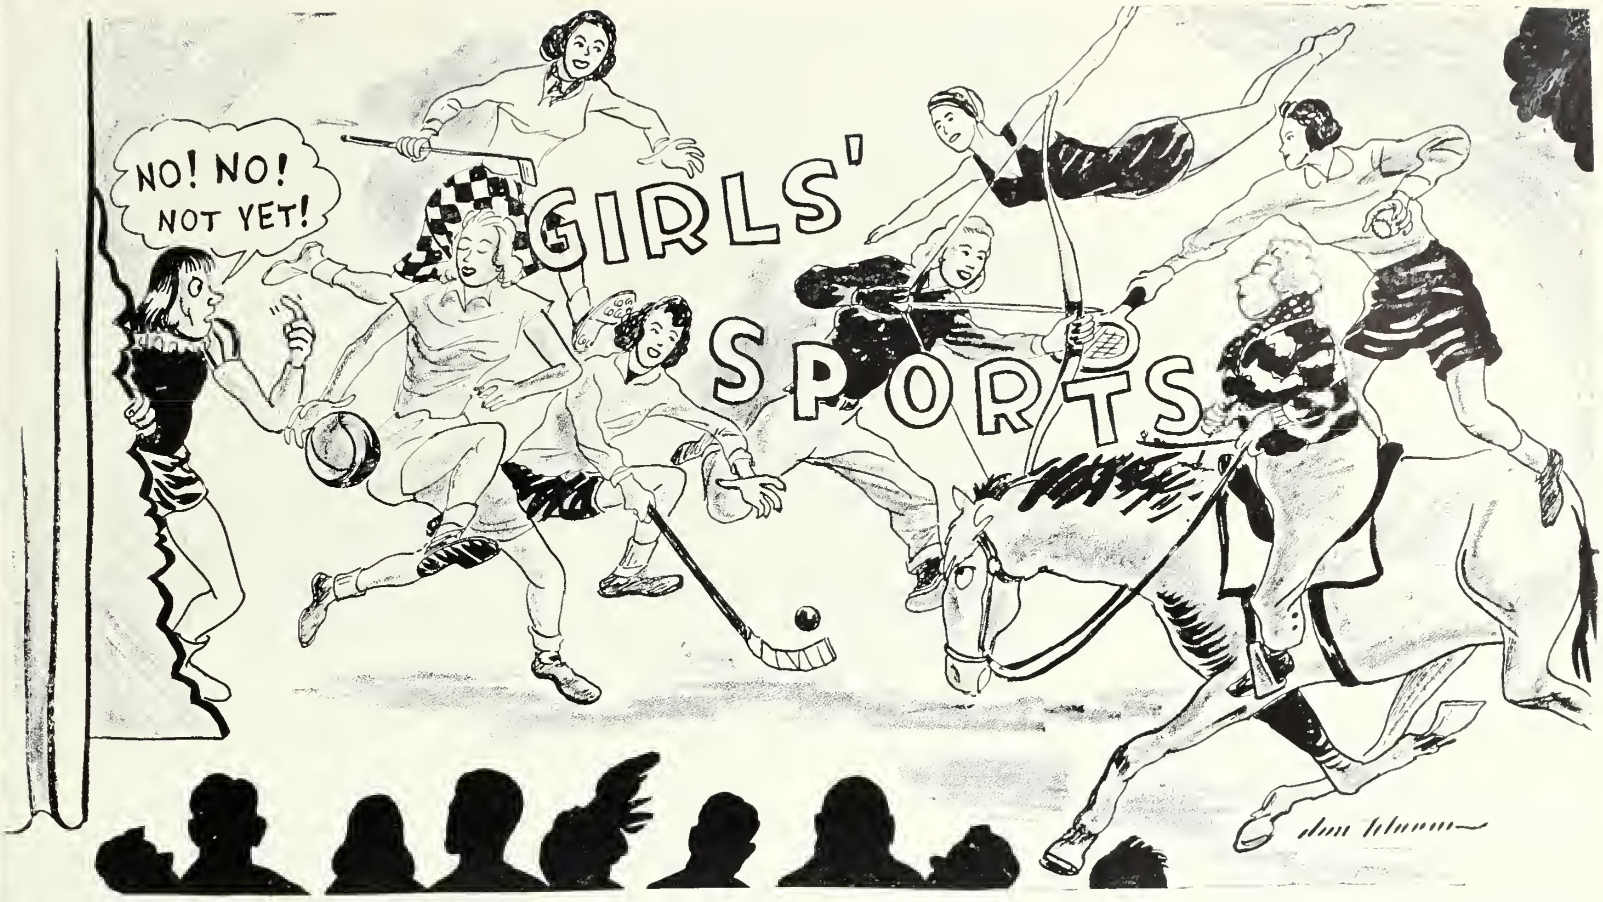
HOCKEY

Despite a mediocre seasons record, the Brookline High School "pucksters" under coach "Clem" McCann provided Brookline hockey fans with many a thrilling moment. Led by a high scoring first line composed of center Joe Buckley and two slashing wings in the persons of "Gugga" Fay and Jim Donovan, the McCannmen managed to pull out only two victories out of a seasons slate of nine games. Keeping opposing wings from too daring thrusts at the B.H.S. net, "iron man" Austin Stern and latecomer Tom Hines provided a steady and solid defense. Danny Rollins managed to defend the nets from the onslaughts of the opposition until dependable veteran Jack Sheehan returned to the cage. The diminutive second line, centered by "Red" Curtin and flanked by wings "Popeye" Manning and "Porky" Farley; provided an abundance of reserve strength. Further enhancing the team's power were "Jack-of-all-trades" Mal Ferguson, defenseman Charley "Rip" Rainey, and forwards John O'Brien and Ben Murphy.

With the majority of this year's squad returning for future competition, Brookline High School's hockey squad seems assured of success in the near future.

INTO THE CAGE, OZZIE.



GIRLS' SPORTS

GIRLS' ARCHERY

Accuracy of aim and perfection of form are absolute requisites if you want to hear that satisfying shout, "It's a bull's eye!"

This year, coached by Miss Kelley, Mrs. Quinn, and Miss Voorhiis, the B. H. S. Archery Group was instructed in the fundamentals of archery, and each girl was rated for her own benefit on the basis of accuracy and form. The members of the group spent one afternoon weekly throughout the winter months in arduous practice before their targets. Their efforts were not without reward, for they made a record number of "bull's eyes" and became well experienced in the ancient sport of archery.

Coaches: MISS KELLEY

MISS VOORHIIS

ROW 1: Ansin, Chooljian, Cutler, Sawyer, Bernstein, Cherniak, Mann, Stolzberg, Davidson, Davis, Grund, Saltman, Aranson, Kline.

ROW 2: Wolk, Gorden, Mirkin, Fishman, Greene, Berkman, Craven, Cohen, Kirisimo, Diller, Krass, Barth, Kliman.

ROW 3: Marrow, Levine, Balanoff, Sheinkoff, Johnson, Hamel, Smith, Bornstein, Goldman, Selett, Saxe, Trustman, Hirsch, R. Hozid, D. Hozid, Shufro, Blotner, Alpern, Berger.

ROW 4: Wolfers, Pearlstein, Brown, Goldberg, Minkin, Dana-Bashian, Kaplan, Arnold, Parkins.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The crowd cheered its approval as the ball plunged swiftly through the circle of net to score another victory for the team.

This familiar scene took place weekly throughout the fall and winter months when the members of the Girls' Basketball Group met to play intra-school basketball. This year there was no Varsity Team, but the entire group was composed of four House recreational divisions, each made up of about eighty girls. Coached by Mrs. Brusko, the group learned to play an excellent game of basketball in preparation for future varsity games.

ROW 1: Delmano, Moses, Popkin, Pastan, Kline, Shinkoff.
ROW 2: Churnick, Bailey, Sax, Winn, Seigel, Hyde.

GIRLS' GOLF

"Fore!" Here they come. They're the members of Girls' Golf, wielding their golf sticks with gusto. Throughout the fall and spring months of this year a group of enthusiastic, although inexperienced, players could be seen on the luxurious green of the Brookline Municipal Golf Course. These girls were members of Girls' Golf and met once a week throughout the season for instruction in driving and putting.

Outstanding members of the group were Honey Marrow and Janet Schein, who led the rest in ability and perseverance. Although the girls participated in no tournaments, they gained ability and experience under the able guidance of Miss Kelley and the golf course instructors.

Coach: MISS KELLEY

GIRLS' HOCKEY

Coached by Mrs. Brusko and captained by Betty Ann Boehner, the B. H. S. Girls' Hockey Team met bi-weekly during the fall for an afternoon of practice and play at Dean Field. Games with Hingham, Needham, and Newton gave the varsity team a chance to try their skill and to experience the thrills of inter-school games.

Outstanding players of the season were Nancy Ball and Phyllis Davis, who made several goals apiece for the B. H. S. team. Although the team was not a victorious one, the girls gained valuable experience in the game of hockey, and in the art of good sportsmanship.

Coach: MRS. BRUSKO

ROW 1: Noonan, Stern, Coffin, Arnold, Boehner, Hickey, Parkins, P. Murphy, Wyatt, Ball.
ROW 2: Mrs. Brusko, Barkin, Jackins, Lidstone, Lyons, McCloud, M. Murphy, Deering, Donigan, G. Murphy, Waters, Klein, Mgr.
ROW 3: Davis, Miller, Driscoll, Brown, Winn, Bromberg, Melnick, Simpson, Johnson, Flaherty, Silvano.

SPLASH PARTY

GIRLS' RIDING

"All ready! Kick, one—two— three!" shouted the instructor, and slowly the well-groomed horses of the Wright Stables broke into a rhythmic trot and then into an exciting canter under the guidance of the adept female riding enthusiasts of B. H. S.

Midst the crackling of fallen leaves or the fragrance of budding greens the B. H. S. equestriennes, under the supervision of Miss Kelley, experienced the many thrills of horseback riding throughout the spring and fall months of this year. With the instruction of the patient teachers of the Wright Stables, the beginner, intermediate, and advanced riders were taught the fundamentals of riding on the rustic trails of Franklin Park.

Adviser: MISS KELLEY

ROW 1: Cohen, Berkman, J. Hirsch, Fleishman, Wray, Zukor, Bass, Schnieder, Swartz.
ROW 2: Shaer, Brin, I. Hirsch, Mac Lean, Winn, Walters, Kaplan, Manecofsky.

ROW 1: Levine, Scott, Johnson, Horlick, Waters, Dewire, Simpson, Saievetz.

GIRLS' SWIMMING

Every Wednesday afternoon during the year a group of athletic young ladies met at the Municipal Pool to improve their form by practicing familiar strokes and learning new ones. Throughout the fall months the girls competed for membership in the varsity team, which enabled the lucky winners to participate in interschool meets and play-days.

Under the patient instruction of Miss Sutherland, all three groups, beginner, intermediate, and varsity, had the opportunity to improve their stroke and speed by instruction periods and relays. This year a senior life-saving and instructors' course was offered for those girls who wished to become senior life-savers and aquatics' instructors.

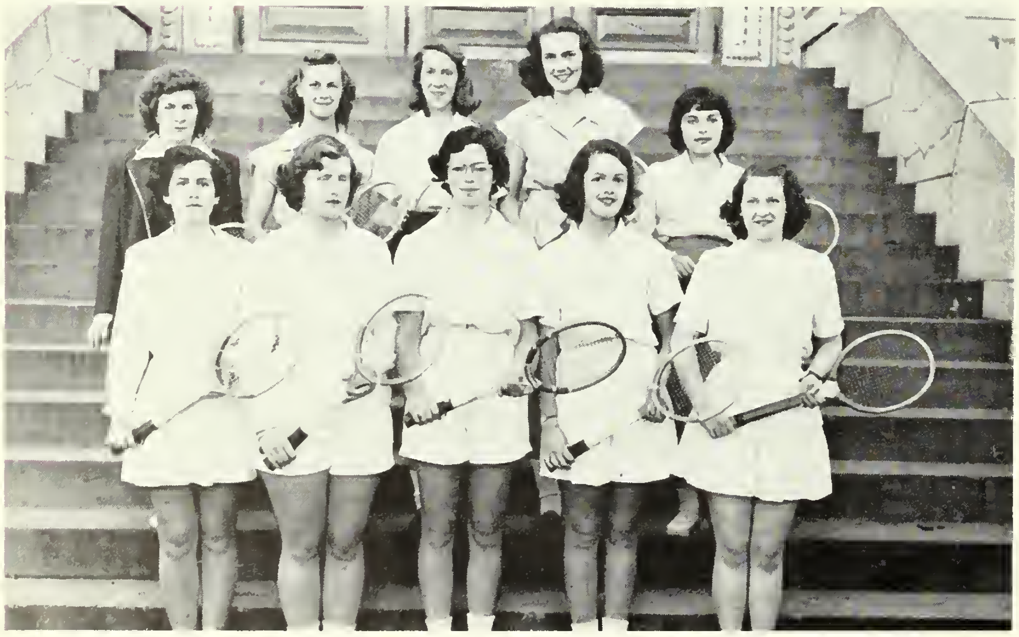
BARBARA PARKS PLAYS THE GAME.



ROW 1: Stern, Driscoll, Selya, Parkins, Hanson.
ROW 2: Mrs. Brusko, Varnum, Arnold, O'Connor, Bernstein.

GIRLS' TENNIS

High ball—low ball—fast ball— slow ball —the members of the varsity team can hit them all! Under the guidance of Mrs. Brusko, the team had an exciting season of interscholastic tennis matches this spring. The most exceptional player of the year was Barbara Parks, one of the best junior racqueteers in the state of Massachusetts. With her able playing and that of the other members of the team, many points were scored for Varsity Tennis. Mrs. Brusko looks forward to next year's being another banner year since several excellent players are left in the underclassman ranks.

SCENE II SHAILER HOUSE

When you think of coming greatness, think of Shailer, the happy Sophomores. Led by Mr. Paul Mather, Housemaster, and Miss Lillian Murdock, Assistant Housemaster, this house, filled with second-year hopefuls, gives promise of being something special in their Junior year. With fourteen rooms brimming with Sophomores ready to play their part as Juniors, Shailer House makes records that call for applause. . . . Talent aplenty on the platform, stage, and field makes the house unusually active. . . . J-Varsity coaches nod hopefully, club advisers smile happily, program planners scheme generously, everybody looks cheerfully at our four hundred and seventy-two new Juniors. . . . Secure in social school history, with their Freshman Social at Driscoll, their Sophomore Dance at Devotion, Shailer already is dreaming of that Junior Prom next year. . . . On this page are some of the reasons for Shailer's up and coming spirit. . . . For more reasons, scan the names and faces in the fourteen home rooms that follow. . . . Yes, Shailer is all set for a big Junior Year. Keep your banking leadership out front, your attendance records shining, and your banner high! Good luck, Shailer!

SCENE III PACKARD HOUSE

Sixteen bustling home rooms of nearly five hundred jolly Juniors are happily planning their Senior careers. . . . Under the leadership of Mr. Wendell Weeks, Housemaster, and of Miss Madeline Anderson, Assistant Housemaster, these Juniors are figuring ways and means of topping all records. . . . Behind them lie the ballots and the voting, the committees and the fun of three productive years. . . . Ahead rise the problems of vocational and college choices that mean so much. Never to be forgotten are the Freshman Party in the Music Rooms, the Sophomore Dance at Driscoll, the Junior Prom, and all the good times in between. . . . Not forgetting of course the Council meetings where good advice flowed freely under the smooth direction of Charles Egan. . . . The officers and choices on this page have their equals in the home rooms that follow. . . . Study these names and faces for the leading citizens of B. H. S., the Seniors of 1950. . . . The clubs and publications, sports and teams, classes and committees are looking confidently to you for quality leadership. . . . Good luck to you, Packard. . . . Keep pitching!

SENIORS

TO THE CLASS OF 1949

Each House develops its own personality which it projects throughout the whole school. I think of you as The Friendly House. Your life here has been marked by the practical application of the Golden Rule. Your genuine responses, your eager participation in community efforts, and your willingness to elect responsible people to office have made you unique among the Houses. I hasten to add that Akers House has contributed a good proportion of scholars, athletes, and honored members to our school family.

All those who have had a part in your education to date, and especially your Housemaster, recognize your contributions to each other and the school. I thank you for your fine cooperative spirit and wish for you the continuance of that genuineness of mind and heart that makes for a wholesome America.

Warren L. Bartlett

TO THE CLASS OF 1949

It has been my privilege to work with you during your years at Brookline High and I am grateful for the many things you have done individually and collectively to make it a happy experience. I am also sincerely thankful for all that you have taught me.

As you leave these halls of learning for more extensive ones, I would have you remember the following principles as stated by Marshall Field: The value of time, the success of perseverance, the pleasure of working, the dignity of simplicity, the worth of character, the power of kindness, the obligation of duty, the wisdom of economy, the virtue of patience, the improvement of talent, and the joy of originating.

May each one of you attain the high goal you have set for yourself toward which the years spent at Brookline High have been important stepping stones.
